The annual Elephant Festival in Thailand started in 1960 and is now one of Thailand's major tourist events. Thousands of people attend this festival and the elephants entertain them every year. Elephants have many skills and can do a lot of things. They're amazing animals. They're intelligent, they like people, music and sports. They are very good dancers, too, and they love dancing rock, jazz and folk.

Apart from this, they've got a very special talent for sports, and elephant football is the favourite at the event.

'Beautiful - they're just great! The little ones are so cool! It's spectacular,' said Australian tourist David Burnett.

Elephants are an important part and a traditional symbol of Thai culture and history. In the old times they played an important role in battles, and were a very efficient form of transport. Thai people respect and love them very much.
