---	------------------------------

Dear Sharon,

How are you? I hope your cold is better and you feel OK now. Maybe you need a holiday.

I 1) (really enjoy) _____ my first term at university. I'm now in the fifth week, and I 2) (make) _____ three or four really good friends already. My room-mate, Hans, is one of them. He comes from Germany. We've got loads in common and it feels as though I 3) (know) _____ him for ever! The only problem with Hans is that he is always listening to loud music in the evening when I try to read. Unfortunately, he 4) (never turn) _____ it down when I ask him to. This 5) (cause) _____ some misunderstandings. After our argument last week, I feel that Hans and I can no longer share our room because of his stubborn attitude. Fortunately, this time next month I 6) (travel) _____ home because I 7) (tell) _____ that my aunt 8) (return) _____ from the States by then. You know I 9) (always be) _____ very fond of her. So... I'll be in town and it would be great to meet up, if you're free. I promise I'll call you up as soon as I 10) (get) _____ there.

Best wishes,

John

A

On March 27 1977 a Pan Am 747, which was waiting to take off from Tenerife airport, collided with a Dutch KLM 747 that was taking off in the fog. It was the worst air crash in history. Everyone on the KLM plane survived. Many more would have survived if they had got off the plane immediately.

B

One of the survivors was 65-year-old Paul Heck. He led his wife Floy towards the exit and they got out just before the plane caught fire, just 60 seconds after the collision. Why Paul Heck and not others? In the hours just before the crash Paul had done something highly unusual.

C

While Paul was waiting for the plane to take off, he studied the 747's safety diagram at the time he made time ease away. He had been in a theatre fire as a boy, ever since then, he always checked for the exits when he was in an unfamiliar environment.

D

When the planes collided, Heck's brain had the data it needed. He could work on autopilot, whereas other passengers froze, their minds were paralysed by a storm of new information on aeroplanes and fire escape information. Why don't more people read safety information on aeroplanes and fire escape information in hotels? The answer, according to research, is that people think it's not 'cool' to do so. So next time you fly or stay in a hotel or find yourself in any new environment forget about 'being cool' and take a few seconds to find out where the nearest emergency exit is. It may just save your life.

Task A Match the heading to the paragraph. There are two extra headings.

- 1 The question still remains.
- 2 A fatal date in airplane history.
- 3 A useful habit.
- 4 Different reactions.
- 5 A lucky escape.
- 6 Nothing new to discover.

D

Task B Find words in the text that mean:

- 1 people who outlive a crash (noun)
- 2 unknown (adj)
