C. Construction set to begin in early 2026, with construction completion projected for 2030

D. The building work, that was begun in early 2026, is anticipated to be finished before 2030

Read the following passage and choose the best answer to each of the following questions from 23 to 30.

1. In a challenging job market, many individuals have resorted to "job hugging," or holding onto their current positions despite limited career growth or motivation, according to consulting firm Korn Ferry. This trend is primarily due to the uncertain job market, which has led to lower career expectations. Recent reports indicate that the U.S. job market in 2024 and early 2025 was weaker than anticipated, with fewer jobs added than originally reported, raising concerns about the overall economic outlook.

2. In a job market with few new opportunities and limited chances for promotion, "job hugging" has become more widespread. Stacy DeCesaro, a managing consultant at Korn Ferry, notes that numerous employees are remaining in their current positions, prioritizing stability following the disruptions of the pandemic and ongoing layoffs. A report from July 2025 revealed that most employees plan to remain in their jobs for at least six more months, reflecting a trend of "quiet quitting" and "quiet vacationing," where people stay but are less motivated.

3. However, job hugging is not limited to workers who are simply trying to keep their jobs. DeCesaro explains that top performers are also hesitant to leave their current positions, even if they have outgrown their roles. This reluctance to move on, driven by market fear, leaves many people "sitting in the wrong seat" in their careers, unable to advance or take on new challenges.

4. This situation can be detrimental to both employees and employers. As The Wall Street Journal notes, ambitious workers hoping for promotions may be stuck waiting for co-workers who are unwilling to move on. Additionally, new graduates may struggle to find positions. On the other hand, some see it as an opportunity, as companies can focus on developing existing talent and creating more internal career paths.

Question 23. Which of the following best paraphrases the underlined sentence in paragraph 1?

A. Many workers lower their career goals to better cope with the challenges of unstable working conditions.

B. Faced an unstable labor market, workers tend to lower their expectations for career growth opportunities.

C. The job market's instability largely accounts for this trend and the resultant drop in career prospects.

D. The more precarious the employment situation becomes, the more career ambitions likely decline.

Question 24. The word their in paragraph 2 refers to _____.

A. positions'

B. opportunities'

C. employees'

D. layoffs'

Question 25. The word outgrown in paragraph 3 could be best replaced by _____.

Question 26. The phrase take on in paragraph 3 is OPPOSITE in meaning to _____.

A. admit

B. limit

C. oppose

D. refuse

Question 27. Which of the following is NOT mentioned as one of the factors leading to job hugging in the passage?

A. Limited networking chances.

B. Few career opportunities.

C. Unstable labor market.

D. Job security worries.

Question 28. Which of the following is TRUE according to the passage?

A. Many employees nowadays prioritize taking on challenges that can help them advance over job stability.

B. Continuous employee turnover provides advantages for the company's development of its workforce.

C. Many employees decline promotions as their current jobs provide a higher stable income level.

D. The current job market presents both risks and strategic advantages for business organizations.

Question 29. In which paragraph does the author mention the minimum duration many workers continue in their current jobs?

A. Paragraph 3.

B. Paragraph 2.

C. Paragraph 4.

D. Paragraph 1.

Question 30. In which paragraph does the author indicate that the job market turned out worse than expected?

- A. Paragraph 4. B. Paragraph 2. C. Paragraph 3. D. Paragraph 1.

Read the following passage and choose the best answer to each of the following questions from 31 to 40.

1. Hanoi has recorded early positive progress in its efforts to shift toward greener transportation, showing the city's strong commitment and clear strategy for sustainable development. On May 28, the municipal People's Committee introduced Plan No. 149/KH-UBND to carry out a program aimed at building a public transport system that uses electric and green-energy buses. [I] This plan marks an important step toward reducing pollution and improving the city's environmental quality.

2. From 2025 to 2026, Hanoi will complete mechanisms and policies that support businesses in transitioning to green vehicles. During this period, the city will also expand its network of electric and green-energy buses and continue building additional charging stations. [II] The target is for green buses to account for 10% of the fleet in 2025 and approximately 20–23% in 2026. [III] The city will also further develop its charging infrastructure to improve efficiency and enhance the capacity and connectivity of the electric bus system.

3. Since the beginning of 2025, Hanoi has added six new electric bus routes with 97 vehicles. [IV] As a result of this expansion, electric routes now total 16 out of 128, and the fleet of electric buses has grown to 246. According to the Hanoi Department of Construction, by the end of June, the city had 8,831 electric taxis, representing 47.4% of all taxis in operation. As of July 8, Hanoi had also established 118 public bike-sharing stations within Ring Road 3, providing 1,100 bicycles, including 100 electric-assisted bikes. This bike-sharing service operates continuously, 24 hours a day.

4. Deputy Director of the municipal Department of Construction, Dao Viet Long, noted that Hanoi will introduce new policies to promote the transition to green transportation. These measures will encompass direct financial support and indirect incentives through adjusted fees and charges. The city also plans to adopt new public transport solutions to better meet residents' mobility needs and limit reliance on motorbikes. Additionally, Hanoi is considering improved integration among different transport modes to enhance overall efficiency and connectivity.

Question 31. Which of the following best paraphrases the underlined sentence in paragraph 1?
