B9. Today's grandparents who are joining their grandchildren on social media, but the B10. different generations' online habits are such different. In the UK the over-55s are joining
B11. Facebook in increasing numbers, meaning that they will as soon be the site's second
B12. biggest user group. Sheila, aged 59, says us, 'I joined to see what my grandchildren are
B13. doing, as my daughter posts lots videos and photos of them. It's a much better way to
B14. see what they're doing than have waiting for letters and photos in the post. That's how
B15. we did it when I was a child, but I think I'm enough lucky I get to see much more of their
B16. lives than my grandparents did itself.' Ironically, Sheila's grandchildren are less likely
B17. to use Facebook themselves. Every children under 17 in the UK are leaving the site –
B18. only 2.2 million users are under 17 – but they're not going to far from their smartphones.
