Reading Activity

4. Read the speeches and write their names under the correct pictures. (K.E6.4.R1)

Linda: Hi! What a perfect day! It's 32°C and the sky is clear and sunny. I feel absolutely fabulous! I'm packing my bag right now. We should definitely go to the beach!

Daisy: Brrr! I just checked the temperature. It's -5 degrees Celsius! It is freezing. I'm not going outside today. I feel so cold. I'll just stay indoors with a hot cup of tea.

Jack: Ugh, look at the sky. It's so cloudy and gray. There's no sun at all. This kind of weather always makes me feel so sleepy and a bit moody.

Martin: Oh, wow! Did you see that flash of lightning? The thunder is so loud... This storm is really strong. It makes me feel really anxious and a little scared.

Speaking Activity

My Weather Report

7. Talk about the weather and your emotions. (E6.4.SP1)

Instructions: Look at the weather forecast image with the four cities: London, New York, Tokyo, and Ankara. Choose one city. Prepare a short speech (like a weather reporter!) to tell your classmates about the weather in that city.

In your speech, you must:

- Say the name of the city.
- Describe the weather for Monday. (It's...")
- Say the temperature. (Example: "It is 25 degrees Celsius.")
- Describe the weather for another day (like Tuesday or Friday).
- Explain how the weather on one of those days makes you feel. (Example: "It is stormy. I feel...")
