Dear Mr. Singh,

Please find enclosed an invoice for your order of May 16th. We regret the delay in your shipment. Our cargo was held up by customs for much longer than expected, so our international shipments were delayed beyond our control. As such, we have couriered your shipment to you at no extra cost and hope that our delays have not caused you too much inconvenience. As further compensation, we are offering you a 10% discount on your next order of $1,500 or more. Once again, we apologize for the delay and hope to do business with you again in the very near future.

Sincerely,

Gordon Ray
International Sales Manager

Questions 14 – 18 refer to the following memo, partial agenda, and e-mail.

MEMO

Date: March 16

RE: Travel expenses

A great deal of employee travel is scheduled for the coming weeks. Therefore, the accounting department would like to clarify company policy regarding reimbursement for hotel stays and per diem.

Hotels: Our support staff are instructed to book and pre-pay hotel rooms for employees within a standard price limit, which depends on the city and the season of travel. For example, the limit for this month's MBA convention in Springfield is $200 per night. If you wish to reserve a more expensive hotel, you must pay the difference yourself.

Per diem: Per diem is meant to cover food and other small expenses while traveling. It is a fixed amount per day and varies according to the city. For one-day trips with no overnight stay, employees receive 75% of the standard per diem. For example, here are the per diem amounts for a trip to Springfield:

Standard per diem: $80 per day

One-day trip (no overnight stay): $60

If you have any questions, please don't hesitate to ask.

Subject: Convention

Date: March 17

Hi, Alana.

There's been a slight change of plans. I know you booked me for Friday and Saturday night at the Springfield Airport Hotel. But an important client is asking for an urgent meeting on Friday evening, so I'll just be flying in for Saturday's sessions. Can you please cancel the hotel and change my ticket to the 6:45 a.m. departure and the 7:00 p.m. return flight on the 27th? I've checked, and there are plenty of seats left on both.

Sorry to cause you extra trouble.

Thanks,

Sara
