

1. You meet someone on social media who's interested in the same things you are. Is it OK to give your phone number?
2. You're on vacation with your family, and you want to post pictures to show your friends. Should you post them while you are gone?
3. Your classmate doesn't have an email account. She wants the password to your account so she can email her cousin. Is it OK to give it to her?
4. You get an email with the subject line "You just won $5,000!" Is it a good idea to open it?
5. You're doing homework online when an ad for free headphones pops up on your screen. All you have to do is click the download button. Should you?
6. Your online "friend" invites you to his house in a nearby town. You have been "friends" for two years. Is it OK to hang out with him?
