Young consumers

We asked three students: What's the most expensive thing you've ever bought? This is what they said...

Mark: I bought a new laptop a few months ago. I can't remember the exact price, but it was pretty expensive. I could afford to buy it because I'd earned some money – last summer, I worked as a shop assistant for six weeks. I already had a laptop, but it was quite old. I've given that laptop to my little sister. She's eight years old, and she only uses it for playing games. My new laptop is really useful. I sometimes use it to stream films. Also, I write a blog about student life, and I often use the new laptop to write new posts and upload photos to my blog. My little sister isn't allowed to touch it!

Julia: I've never bought anything particularly expensive. I've got a nice smartphone, but I didn't buy it myself – my parents gave it to me for my birthday. I don't know how much they paid, but it's an expensive brand, so I'm sure it wasn't cheap! I love my smartphone. I use it all the time, and I get a lot out of it. We can't use phones in class, of course, but when I get the chance – during breaks, or at lunchtime – the first thing I do is check my phone. I mainly use it to get in touch with my friends and family.

Stevie: I hate spending money! Sometimes I get money for my birthday, but I don't usually spend it – I prefer to save it for the future. I try to avoid paying too much for products. If I really need something, I don't rush into buying it – I like to take my time and look online for bargains. I'm not interested in luxury brands. The last thing I bought was a games console. I got it at a local store. It was brand new, but it was a bit damaged, so the shop assistant agreed to reduce the price by 50%. That's what I call good value!
