The results are in!

Last month we asked you to tell us what you think of different types of transport in our city. First, we asked you which is <sup>1</sup> (easy) to use, the bus or the train. More of you (sixty percent) said the train. Forty percent of you think buses are <sup>2</sup> (difficult) because they're often late. A lot of people said they felt <sup>3</sup> (happy) on the train too, because it's <sup>4</sup> (comfortable) than the bus.

Next we wanted to know if you thought the bus or a taxi was <sup>5</sup> (good). Guess what? Fifty-five percent of you said the bus! This is because it's <sup>6</sup> (big) than a taxi, so you can relax more when you get on. However, when it's busy, 80% think a bus is <sup>7</sup> (bad) than a taxi, even though buses are <sup>8</sup> (cheap).

READING

Getting around

Is your journey from A to B boring? Look at these unusual forms of transport from around the world. They make it fun to travel!

The Chiva Express, Ecuador

The Chiva Express is not a normal bus. It's changed so that it can run on a train line! It takes tourists up mountains to see the beautiful views. OK, there are faster ways to travel, but this is more interesting. It has big seats and food and drink services. And if you want an even better experience, you can sit on the roof! So next time you're in Ecuador and want to see the mountains, take this bus!

Amfibus, the Netherlands

This starts as a tour of the modern city of Rotterdam. Fifty passengers can get on the bus and look at famous places in the city centre. But then the bus takes a different route and goes into the Maas River! Yes, it's a bus that becomes a ferry, and can go on both land and water. On the water, the city becomes more interesting because you can see places that you can't see from the land.

Central-Mid-Levels Escalator, Hong Kong

Do you like walking everywhere, but get tired? Well in Hong Kong, it's easier to walk than in other places. This escalator takes you through the centre of the city. It's a great way to visit museums, shops and parks. It's free, and at 800 metres long, there's no outside escalator in the world that's longer than this one.
