Raziq and Rasyid loved playing in the school _____ (1). One sunny morning, they noticed something that made them _____ (2). There were sweet wrappers under the slide, empty bottles near the swings, and bits of paper _____ (3) across the field.

“Rasyid, our school looks _____ (4),” Raziq said.
“If we don’t clean it up, it won’t be fun to play here.”

Rasyid nodded. “Let’s be the Clean-Up _____ (5)!” he exclaimed.
They grabbed a small bag and started picking up the _____ (6). Soon, their friends joined in. Some collected rubbish, others sorted paper and plastic into _____ (7) bins. Even their teacher smiled and said, “Well done, everyone! You’re making our school a healthier, happier _____ (8).”

By the end of recess, the playground was sparkling clean. Raziq and Rasyid felt _____ (9). From that day on, the children promised to throw rubbish in the bins, recycle what they could, and remind each other kindly to keep the school _____ (10).
