The Grand Finale: All About Talent

Tonight is the most important night of the year: the grand finale of "All About Talent." Millions of people are watching at home, and the atmosphere in the studio is electric. Today, we are talking to Peter, a super fan who has seen every single episode of the season.

Interviewer: Welcome, Peter! Let's start with the favorite. Carrie Oki and her pop group are performing a Taylor Swift song. Last week they were good, but will they be better tonight?

Peter: Absolutely! In my opinion, Carrie is the most talented singer in the competition. Although the other groups are loud, her voice is much clearer. Besides, her dancers are brilliant and their choreography is the most energetic I have ever seen. I think they will do an amazing job.

Interviewer: That sounds promising. Now, what about the actress Holly Wood? She is planning to read a dramatic poem by the famous writer Warren Peace. Do you think it will be popular with the public?

Peter: To be honest, I'm not sure. It is a beautiful and deep poem; however, I think it is a bit too sad for a Friday night show. People want to party and dance! Holly is a great actress, but this performance might be too serious. Will she win the trophy?

Interviewer: I see your point. Finally, let's talk about the comedian Joe King. He was very funny last week, but will he be funnier than Carrie Oki? We will see tonight.

Peter: Joe is definitely the funniest comedian of the season. He makes everyone laugh with his jokes about school and parents. But, if I have to choose a winner, I think it will be Carrie Oki because her show is more complete. It's going to be a very difficult decision for the judges!
