Hey, Antonio! How did the presentation go?
4.32

Hey! Yeah, not too bad. They kept asking me to [1]speak up / bring up though because my mic wasn't working properly.
4.35

Oh, really? But did you still manage to [2]come across your message / get your message across?
4.36

More or less. I did have to [3]spell out / speak up the need for us to be better at recycling. Every day I find plastic in the normal bin, loads of waste paper by the photocopier ... We've talked about it before so it's a bit frustrating having to keep [4]coming back to / pointing out the same point.
4. 37

Yeah, that must be pretty annoying! Did you [5]move on / bring up your idea for the renewable energy programme?
4. 38

No, I decided to leave that for now. Anyway, how did your interview go?
4. 39

Well, they said I [6]spoke up / came across well, but I didn't get the job. In the feedback, they [7]pointed out that / came back to the candidate who got the job had a lot more experience.
4.41

Oh, no! Sorry, mate. Well, never mind. Take what you can from the experience and [8]come back to / move on from it.

Thanks, [illegible]!
