A Very Busy Weekend

Last weekend, Daniel had a very busy schedule. On Saturday morning, he woke up at 7:30 a.m. and immediately made his bed. After that, he cleaned his room and organized his desk because he wanted to start the weekend feeling productive.

At 9:00 a.m., he helped his mother prepare breakfast. They made pancakes and fruit juice together. After breakfast, Daniel finished his homework because he didn't want to worry about it later. Around noon, he met his friends at the park. They played soccer for almost two hours. After the game, they felt tired but excited because Daniel's team won. They sat under a tree and talked about school and their plans for the summer.

In the afternoon, Daniel visited his grandparents. His grandmother prepared lunch, and they all ate together. During lunch, his grandfather told stories about his childhood. Daniel enjoyed listening to him because the stories were funny and interesting.

In the evening, Daniel returned home and took a short shower. Later, he watched a movie with his sister. Before going to bed, he studied for his math test for about an hour. He went to sleep at 10:30 p.m. feeling tired but satisfied with his productive day.

On Sunday, Daniel woke up later. He went to church with his family and then spent the afternoon relaxing. He read a book and listened to music. In the evening, he prepared his backpack for school and went to bed early because he wanted to feel ready for Monday.
