P: And here's Nick Newman with the late-night weather.

NN: Good evening. Well, it seems spring's almost here. Across the British Isles, tomorrow will be warmer, but not everywhere ...

So, let's look at the weather in more detail, and I'll start with the south. In all of southern England, tomorrow will be the sunniest day of the week; it will be dry, with <sup>1</sup> _____ skies and sunshine all day. In most places, there'll be a <sup>2</sup> _____ wind, but it will still feel quite warm; temperatures will be around eighteen degrees in most of the area and will get to twenty in Cornwall.

Across Wales and the Midlands, the morning will be foggy, but the fog should soon clear. After that we can expect a sunny day with some cloud. There will be a few showers with the possibility of thunder in the late afternoon. The morning won't be very warm – only eight degrees, I'm afraid. But it should get warmer during the afternoon and the temperature will rise to fourteen degrees.

In the north of England, Saturday will be a windy day, and that <sup>3</sup> _____ west wind will bring rainy weather from the Atlantic. It will be cloudy with showers most of the day but there will be some sunny moments. Temperatures will be around thirteen degrees, but it will feel colder in the wind. Now for Scotland and Northern Ireland. Well, it's definitely not spring here yet. There will be a lot of cloud around and quite a lot of rain. The Highlands will have the wettest weather. The rain will be <sup>4</sup> _____ there, and high up in the mountains it may still snow tonight and tomorrow night.

Temperatures at best around eleven degrees

REMEMBER BETTER

Learning antonyms can help you keep talking about a topic even if you forget a word which you want to use.

Compare these two students trying to say that the wind was light.

The wind was very er ... er ... weak ... er low ... er soft ... er

The wind was very ... it wasn't strong at all.

Complete the second sentence in each pair using the correct antonym.

There was pleasant, light wind, so we weren't too hot on the beach.

The wind wasn't strong and it was cool on the beach.

- 1 Wake up and look out of the window. The sky isn't cloudy at all.
