

THE PERFECT CRIME

Alice Jackson is a happily married woman. She loves her baby son, and she adores her husband, Henry. Tonight is her tenth wedding (1) _____, and some friends are coming round to have a drink. Everything seems (2) _____ but Alice's life is going to change.

- Alice: Hello, darling. Have some beer
- Henry: Sit down. I've got something to say. I'm sorry. I know it's a bad time to tell you. It's our anniversary. But it's just that Kathy and I are in love. Bobby (3) _____ miss me, he's too young.
- Alice: I'll (4) _____ the party
- Henry: What on Earth!
- Alice: Hello, police please. Hello, is that the police? Come quickly. It's my husband. Something (5) _____ has happened to him.
- Detective: Detective Parry, Mrs Jackson. Where is he?
- Alice: In the (6) _____. Is he alright?
- Detective: He's (7) _____
- Alice: No, no, not Henry! My Henry! Oh Henry!
- Detective: What happened?
- Alice: I was putting the baby to bed upstairs. And I just came (8) _____ and found him lying on the kitchen floor.
- Sergeant: Burglars
- Detective : Sit down, Mrs. Jackson. Sergeant Taylor, get Mrs. Jackson a drink. A brandy with some (9) _____ ! It's hot in this room. I hope you understand, Mrs Jackson, that we have to search the (10) _____ immediately. We must find the murder weapon.
- Alice: Yes, yes. Of course.
- Detective: What was that?
- Sergeant : It's this (11) _____, sir. It's melting. Can I have a glass of water, Mrs Jackson? It's so hot in here.
- Detective : I think we all need one. And with (12) _____
- Friend 1: Poor Alice!
- Friend 2: Poor Henry! I don't believe it. What a (13) _____ for you!
- Alice: Oh thank you, thank you. Please, stay and have a drink. Help yourselves.
- Friend 1: I wonder what the burglar hit him with.
- Friend 2: Who knows?