PART D READING COMPREHENSION

Read the passage and answer the questions.

When accepting visitors from abroad, the golden rule is to put yourself in their shoes. From the moment you touch down in a foreign country, think about how you feel and what you would like help with. One example may be that you're anxious about getting around the city, and first and foremost that means getting into the city from the airport. Others could be related to basic things such as getting Internet access, finding suitable things to eat, and communicating with the locals. In fact, that last one is a good reason to get an interpreter! This can also avoid misunderstandings with business issues, although interpreters are not cheap. If your company doesn't have the budget, choose the person in your office with the best ability to speak your guest's language. Finally, be sure to keep in mind the traditional customs of your guest's home country, as they probably won't be familiar with all of yours. This also shows that you respect them and their culture.

- _____ 11. According to the passage, what is the most important thing to remember to do when hosting guests?
- Ⓐ Help them set up an Internet connection
 - Ⓑ Imagine you are in your guest's position
 - Ⓒ Help them get to know the local people
 - Ⓓ Inform your employees of the guest's visit
- _____ 12. Who can help you avoid misunderstandings, according to the passage?
- Ⓐ A local person
 - Ⓑ An interpreter
 - Ⓒ Your boss
 - Ⓓ Your guest
- _____ 13. What should you know about your guest?
- Ⓐ You should know what their budget is.
 - Ⓑ You should know what their hobbies are.
 - Ⓒ You should know what food they like.
 - Ⓓ You should know about their culture.
