2.INDUSTRIAL INTERIOR DESIGN STYLE

Think old factories and warehouses, and your mind will undoubtedly _____ an image of an unfinished interior, with exposed pipes, brick walls and concrete floors. The modern take on the industrial style has also seen the combination of wood and metal furnishings into the interior. Often, warm earth tones are incorporated into the interior design, and this softens the edgy look of the home.

The purposeful raw finish gives the space an unexpected effortless vibe, with functionality and form taking _____ in this design style.

The Industrial style is for you if...

- You are someone who would choose functionality over impractical aesthetics. Loud decorative elements are not in your dictionary, but you do have your own artistic _____ that surfaces in unique collectibles and memorabilia.
- Cookie-cutter isn't your thing – rather than buying mass-produced stuff, you'd rather _____ at making something that's uniquely for you. You might have some DIY projects up your sleeve!
- You're cooler and more collected than bold and brash - and the industrial style's cold, _____ and solid pieces are just the right fit for your straightforward personality.
- While you don't like messes, you like a space that doesn't require you to fuss and fret over. Just like your laid-back, low-maintenance soul, your home has to be the same!
