

|       |        |       |
|-------|--------|-------|
| Name: | Grade: | Date: |
|-------|--------|-------|

| Criteria                                                                                  | Performance |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------|
| Identifies key information in short paragraphs to show literal understanding of the text. |             |
| Recognizes when an event happened in the past based on clues.                             |             |

1. Read the following text and classify the reading between ongoing situations and finished actions.

Sunny Hill School

At Sunny Hill School, students learn and have fun every day. They study subjects like math, English, science, and art. Teachers help them understand new ideas, and students ask questions when they need help. The school is a happy place where everyone feels welcome.

Right now, many things are happening at the school. In one classroom, students are reading a short story, and their teacher is explaining new words. In another room, some students are drawing pictures, and they are using bright colors. In the science class, a group of students is learning about plants, and they are looking at small leaves and flowers.

Outside, some children are playing in the playground. They are running, jumping, and laughing together. A teacher is watching them and is making sure everyone is safe.

Yesterday, the school had a special day. Students celebrated "Clean School Day." They picked up trash, cleaned their classrooms, and washed their desks. Some students worked in groups, and others helped their teachers. At the end of the day, everyone felt proud because the school looked very clean.

Every week, the school plans fun activities. Some students play soccer, others sing songs, and some read books in the library. At the moment, the music class is practicing a new song, and the students are singing together.

Last month, the school started a small garden. Students planted seeds and watered them every day. Now, the plants are growing, and the students are very excited to see them. They learn how to take care of nature.

At Sunny Hill School, students learn, play, and grow every day. They enjoy their classes, and they make many happy memories together.

| Ongoing situations(still happening) | Finished actions |
|-----------------------------------------|------------------|
|                                         |                  |