Shopping Habits

Shopping is something we all do, but how we shop can be very different. Do you love looking for the best deals, or do you prefer buying the latest trends? We want to hear from you!

Danielle, 32

I love going bargain hunting. Nothing makes me happier than finding a great deal, so I always look out for discounts and special offers. Last week, I picked up a beautiful dress at half-price! I also like to shop around before making a big purchase. Why pay full price when you don't have to? However, I sometimes buy things I don't really need just because they're cheap. My husband says I should stop, but I call it shopping therapy!

Jake, 40

I don't like spending too much money on clothes or gadgets. Some brands cost an arm and a leg and I refuse to buy a designer T-shirt that will break the bank. I prefer buying quality items that last. If something doesn't go with my other clothes, I don't buy it. Last month, I ordered some shoes online. I was hoping they would fit like a glove, but I had to take them back. Shopping isn't my favourite thing, but I try to be practical.

Gemma, 25

I adore fashion and new trends! I like to buy clothes that are selling like hotcakes. If I see something stylish, I don't hesitate to queue up for it. I know some things sell out quickly, so I buy them before it's too late. I also enjoy going window shopping to get inspiration. My friends say I spend too much, but I think looking good is worth it. After all, you can't put a price on confidence!

I. Read the text and decide if the statements are True or False.

1. Danielle sometimes buys things she does not really need. → _____
2. Jake likes to buy expensive designer clothes. → _____
3. Jake kept the shoes he ordered online. → _____
4. Gemma buys popular clothes quickly because they can sell out fast. → _____
5. Gemma's friends think she spends a reasonable amount of money on clothes. → _____

II. Read the text and fill in each blank with ONE word.

1. Danielle loves going bargain hunting and always looks out for _____ and special offers.
2. Jake refuses to buy a designer T-shirt because some brands cost an arm and a _____.
3. Jake ordered some shoes online last month, but he had to take them _____.
4. Gemma likes to buy clothes that are selling like _____ before they sell out.
5. Gemma also enjoys going window _____ to get inspiration for new outfits.

WRITING

Do you prefer shopping online or shopping in stores? Give reasons.

I. Writing checklist

Section	What to include	Useful language
Opening sentence	State your preference clearly	I prefer... / I think... / In my opinion...
Reason 1	Give your first reason and a short example	First, ... / One reason is... / For example...
Reason 2	Give your second reason and a short example	Also, ... / Another reason is... / Besides...
Closing sentence	Sum up your opinion	That is why... / Overall, I think... / For these reasons...

II. Model paragraph

I prefer shopping online because it is much more convenient. First, I can buy anything I want without leaving my house. For example, when I need new clothes or school supplies, I just open an app and order them in a few minutes. This saves me a lot of time, especially on busy days. Also, online shops often have better prices and special deals that you cannot find in a regular store. Last month, I bought a pair of trainers online at half price, which I thought was a great deal. Of course, sometimes the item does not look the same as in the photo, but most shops let you send it back easily. That is why I think shopping online is a smarter and easier choice for me.

III. Write a paragraph to answer the question.

- Include:
 - your preference (online shopping or going to a shop)
 - your first reason + a short example
 - your second reason + a short example
 - a closing sentence to sum up your opinion
- Use the checklist and model paragraph to help you.

I. PET Part 3

For each question, choose the correct answer.

Karina Moore – teenage high diver!

Several times a week, teenager Karina Moore trains at her local pool to jump from the high-diving board into the water – in an attempt to become a national diving champion.

Karina first learned about diving during a family break in Spain, where the resort's pool had a high-diving board. Young people were diving off it, and it looked fun, but Karina didn't join in, even though she was a strong swimmer. Then after returning home, she discovered a long-distance runner she'd always admired had started diving for relaxation – so she became more interested.

Karina joined a beginners' diving class at her local pool. They had several sessions jumping onto soft materials before trying the high board. 'The water looked a long way down,' says Karina, 'but after our training, I felt I'd handle it – without injuring myself! They'd warned me I'd land in the water fast – at around 60 kph – but I was prepared. I couldn't wait to get started – although the others weren't so keen! Anyway, I wasn't disappointed by the experience.'

In Karina's area, there's now lots of interest in high diving, but it's sometimes difficult for swimmers to find suitable practice facilities. Although the pools are deep enough, they're in use so often by diving clubs that other people don't get opportunities to practise. Fortunately, though, Karina's coach noticed her talent and helped her develop her techniques. After only two years, she's winning competitions in her area.

But what's it like to concentrate so much on diving? 'I train 20 hours a week' says Karina, 'and I won't pretend it's easy – you have to enjoy it to spend so much time doing it! It's not easy for my parents either, though – they drive me to training sessions early in the morning, and that costs money. But they've had financial help from sports organisations, luckily. And my schoolwork and social life are good. I still meet my mates – and there's always the phone! The only thing I hadn't realised was that the pool water would damage my hair – I used to love my long hair, but I've had to cut it short because it looked awful! But I'll definitely keep on diving!'

Questions:

1. What made Karina keen to take up diving?

- A. She wanted to repeat her holiday experience.
- B. She found out her athletics hero had taken it up.
- C. She'd visited a pool where some teenagers were doing it.
- D. She wanted a new challenge after her success at swimming.

2. How did Karina feel the first time she used the high board?

- A. worried about how far it was above the pool
- B. pleased to experience it with other beginners

- C. confident that she wouldn't get hurt
- D. shocked to hit the water at such speed

3. What does the writer suggest about diving facilities in Karina's area?

- A. They're not used as much as they could be.
- B. There aren't enough coaches teaching people to use them.
- C. There aren't as many boards as there used to be.
- D. They're not available to the public for long enough each day.

4. How does Karina feel about spending so much time diving?

- A. surprised by one effect it has had on her
- B. sorry she no longer sees her friends so much
- C. anxious about the amount of money it costs
- D. grateful to be able to focus on something she loves

5. What would the writer say about Karina?

- A. She's a young girl who's achieved a lot by becoming a national diving champion – and all with very little support.
- B. She's made enormous progress in a very short time – after only a couple of years, she's already showing great signs of success.
- C. She has a lot of natural talent, but she's already thinking of having a break from the high board for a while.
- D. She's sad that she's given up almost everything for her sport – and her lifestyle really sounds quite hard.
