Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the questions.

Sophia Chen has always had a unique perspective on money. Despite being a successful financial analyst at just 30 years old, she prefers a minimalist lifestyle. If you met her, you might think she was just another young professional, but in reality, she has a net worth of over $5 million. For Sophia, true luxury is not about designer clothes or fancy cars; it's about experiences and personal growth.

Sophia grew up in a modest household, where her parents emphasized the importance of saving and investing wisely. This early education instilled in her a strong work ethic and a desire to make informed financial decisions. After graduating from university, she quickly climbed the corporate ladder, earning her reputation as a savvy investor.

Her approach to money has always been pragmatic; she believes in living below her means and investing the rest. Now, with her career thriving, Sophia often speaks at financial literacy workshops. Many of her peers spend their earnings on extravagant vacations and luxury items, but Sophia finds joy in simple pleasures.

“Money serves as a means to acquire comfort, yet it is incapable of purchasing genuine happiness. I’d rather invest in learning a new skill or traveling to a new place than in material possessions.” she says. For her, the true value of money lies in the freedom and opportunities it provides, not in the status it can buy.
