1 Read three people's reports about a plastic detox and tick (✓) A, B, or C.

Sean

A few months ago I saw a news programme which showed a whole river in Indonesia being blocked by plastic waste. It was truly shocking. And that's when I decided to try a one-month plastic detox. I knew almost immediately that things weren't going to be easy. At my local supermarket it is impossible to buy even a loaf of bread without some plastic packaging. I thought I'd be able to persuade the shop assistants to, you know, assist. But when I asked if they could put some fish, or some sausages, into the containers I'd brought instead of plastic bags, they said they weren't allowed to. So I took the easiest route and turned vegetarian for a month, which isn't something I want to continue. Having a full-time job means there's simply no way I can spend hours each week visiting market stalls and boutique bakeries in my quest to reduce plastic. On the other hand, completing the detox has really opened my eyes to the amount of plastic waste I produce. From now on, I'm concentrating on recycling the plastic I use rather than cutting it down.

Cora

I knew completing the plastic detox would be difficult in our busy family home. Children seem to require a lot of plastic. Their toys, their clothes, their food. Have you ever tried to find plastic-free crisps? But I was very motivated to try and I'm glad I did. I discovered an excellent health food shop in our town that sells lots of plastic-free or easily recyclable products, like washing powder in cardboard boxes. Although I won't be able to get everything from there, if I shop there once a month in addition to my weekly supermarket trip I'll be cutting down my plastic use considerably. I've also set up a WhatsApp group with other parents at my children's school. We've divided into smaller groups who live close to each other and we buy plastic-free products online together. It's cheaper that way and it also cuts down on the number of deliveries made to our streets.

Dominic

The key to reducing plastic, I've found, is to think about things in advance. I never leave home without my reusable coffee cup! Luckily for me, as a freelance worker I have more control over my working hours than some people. So it's quite easy for me to visit the street market, or buy meat at a butcher's shop. It's definitely true that these smaller shops, where staff have more time and flexibility, will help you to reduce plastic packaging more effectively than a supermarket. At the start of my detox month I looked carefully at the plastic waste I produce. I discovered that if I made just two or three changes my waste would be significantly reduced. Today I buy milk in glass bottles (ordered online and delivered to my door by an excellent local dairy), meat from the butcher's, and fruit and vegetables at the market. Job done!
