Use present perfect with already to talk about actions which have happened before now.

Already means 'before now' or 'before this time'.

This is the form of the sentence: has / have + already + past participle.

Already is also used to express surprise that something has happened sooner than expected.

Use present perfect with yet to talk about actions which haven't happened up to now.

Yet means 'up to now' or 'up to this moment in time'. We often use it to talk about something we haven't done but expect to do.
