Let's go to Budapest. It's a magnificent city with a wonderful atmosphere and _____ on Christmas Eve. The main _____ of the city is located on the square near Saint Stephen's Basilica. The ice rink is filled in front of the temple so you can _____ and spend time there with pleasure. There is also a stage where choirs, orchestras and folklore groups perform. The square is decorated perfectly. Hungarian dishes are served in wooden chalets. They are: langos with garlic and sour cream, hot goulash, sausages and stewed cabbage. Separate row is reserved for sweets. There you can buy local retes (strudel), gingerbreads and caramelised nuts. You also can find cinnabons, marzipan and mulled wine there. During the Christmas time the historical centre of Budapest is decorated. _____ are lit up along Andrassy Avenue, bridges and palaces facades are illuminated. Fenyvillamos run through the streets. They are tram trains decorated with thousands of light diodes.

One of the spectacular routes is along Danube embankment of Pest. Through the windows you can see Chain Bridge, Buda Castle and the Parliament building.

There is nothing better in the winter than to bask in the hot springs after a long walk around the historical centre. Szechenyi bath, Gellert bath and Lukac's bath work all year round. The water temperature in outdoor pools is kept from +24 to +38 when it's only a few degrees above zero outside. On holidays, there are evening sessions with soft pool lighting and live music.
