How can money buy happiness?

We all know there are <sup>1</sup>_____ things you have to pay for, like food, clothes and your accommodation (if you <sup>2</sup>_____ a flat). Maybe you have a <sup>3</sup>_____ and you can't go to <sup>4</sup>_____ on foot, so you have to go <sup>5</sup>_____ by train. How about the extras, the things you don't really need, but just want? These are often eating out, electronics and <sup>6</sup>_____ - things social media tells us we need. Does <sup>7</sup>_____ sound like you? Well, if it does, take a piece of <sup>8</sup>_____ from a study of happy people. Happy people often 'buy' time (for example by ordering takeaway instead of cooking) and they use that time to be with people and do things that they enjoy. So, you just need <sup>9</sup>_____ money and some good friends. <sup>10</sup>_____ sounds easy, but it's not so simple.
