The Butterfly Garden

Mia loved spending time outdoors. One sunny morning, she noticed a few colorful butterflies flying around her backyard.

Mia wanted more butterflies to visit, so she asked her grandmother for help. Her grandmother suggested planting flowers that butterflies like.

Together, they planted bright flowers and watered them every day. Mia carefully removed weeds and made sure the plants got enough sunlight.

After a few weeks, the flowers began to bloom. Soon, many butterflies visited the garden. Some were yellow, some were orange, and some had beautiful blue wings.

Mia felt proud of her hard work. She learned that caring for nature can create something wonderful.
