Future Inventions

In the future, there will be many amazing inventions. People will travel in flying cars, which will be faster than buses, and the streets will be less busy. At school, students will use smart notebooks that can write by themselves. In hospitals, doctors who work with robots will have better tools for operations. Yesterday, I saw a magazine about new machines, and it said there will be food printers that can make pizza in one minute. My grandmother, who is very wise, says the world was very different when she was young. Although the past was simple, I think the future will be exciting. Children will learn with special glasses, and we will be ready for a new world.
