

Why Go to School?

Many teenagers sometimes ask: “Why do we have to go to school?” The answer is simple but important. School is not only a place where students get knowledge. It is also a place where they develop important life skills.

First of all, school helps students learn basic subjects such as Maths, Science, and languages.

These subjects are essential for future education and career.

Secondly, students learn how to communicate with others. They make friends, work in teams, and respect different opinions. These social skills are very valuable in real life.

Moreover, school teaches discipline and responsibility. Students must complete tasks, follow rules, and manage their time.

Finally, school helps students discover their talents and interests. This can help them choose a future profession.

Write True or False:

- .School only gives knowledge.
-
- Students learn teamwork at school.
-
- .Discipline is not important at school.
-
- School helps choose a future job.
-
- Students don't learn communication skills at school.