READING : My Last Weekend

Last weekend was one of the most interesting weekends I had in a long time. On Saturday morning, I woke up early because I had several things to do. I got out of bed, made breakfast, and drank a cup of coffee. Then, I took a shower and put on my favorite clothes. Before leaving home, I found my keys, took my backpack, and went to the supermarket.

At the supermarket, I bought some fruit, vegetables, and bread. I also met an old friend who came to the same place with her family. We spoke for a few minutes and told each other about our plans for the weekend. After that, I drove to a nearby park and saw many people enjoying the sunny morning.

In the afternoon, I ate lunch at a small restaurant. The food was delicious, and I felt very relaxed. Later, I went home and read a book for a while. Then, I wrote some messages to my friends and gave my sister a call. She said that she was preparing dinner, so I went to her house.

That evening, we sat around the table, had dinner, and drank some juice. We told funny stories and laughed a lot. Before going home, I gave my sister a small gift that I had bought earlier.

On Sunday, I slept until eight o'clock. I felt rested and decided to stay at home. I watched a movie, read another chapter of my book, and did some housework. In the evening, I went for a short walk and thought about my weekend. I had enjoyed every moment and felt grateful for the time I had spent with my family and friends.
