The singing competition

Last year, Mr King, Emma's music teacher, told the school about a singing competition. It was for children between 9 and 12 years old and it was on March 21st.

'I'll choose the winner!' Mr King said, 'and that person will get a prize; it's a new guitar and ten guitar lessons!'

Emma wanted to win! 'I'd love to learn to play the guitar,' she thought. She chose her song and sang it every night in her bedroom. She was very excited on the day of the competition, but she felt afraid too.

When Emma arrived at the theatre to sing her song, she saw hundreds of people who were sitting and waiting for the singing to start. 'I don't think I can sing now,' she whispered to another girl called Sophia who was also in the competition.

'What song are you going to sing?' Sophia asked.

'Best Friends!' Emma answered.

'Wow! Me too!' Sophia said. 'Let's sing it together because I'm afraid too!'

Emma smiled and said, 'Good idea! Come on!'

Sophia and Emma sang very well so they won the competition! Mr King decided to give each of them a guitar and guitar lessons. Now Sophia often goes to Emma's house to play music with her. They're best friends now!
