Wm: This camera is very heavy, Jim!
Boy: Yes, it's new. I bought it here.
Wm: Oh, from the camera shop in the town?
Boy: No, a man was selling cameras on the beach!
Wm: Oh, well, I hope it wasn't too expensive!

Wm: Oh, these shorts are nice!
Boy: Yes, I wanted to get some from the hotel shop but they were too expensive.
Wm: Have you bought them from a shop in town?
Boy: Yes, that's right.

Wm: Oh, Jim! You've got lots of chocolate in your rucksack!
Boy: Yes, I'm going to eat it all on the plane when we travel back home.
Wm: Oh, no you won't! You ate too much chocolate yesterday after we had dinner at the hotel. You bought some from the sweet shop, remember? Is that where you got this chocolate from?
Boy: Well, yes...

Wm: Oh, where did you get this red ball? Is it from home?
Boy: No. I brought one from home, but I lost it. I found this one by the swimming pool! Someone left it there!
Wm: Well, I hope no one is looking for it!

Wm: Why do you have oranges in your rucksack, Jim? Did you buy them from the fruit market or did you take them from the hotel restaurant?
Boy: I found them on an orange tree in the street!
Wm: Oh, you can't eat these! They look good but they don't taste nice! You should leave these here and not take them on the plane. Your rucksack is too heavy!
