III. CHECK-POINT READING PART 5

CHECK-POINT READING PART 5

People and Their Needs

Read · Think
Match · Check

1. WHAT IS PART 5?

- You read short texts about different people.
- Each person has a need.
- You choose the most suitable text (A–G) for each person.

2. HOW TO DO IT (TIPS)

1 Read each person carefully

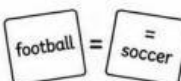

2 Underline all important needs

3 Scan A–G for matching ideas

4 Look for paraphrases, not exact words

5 Make sure all needs match

6 Eliminate options that match only one detail

B. CLASSWORK

CHECK-POINT READING PRACTICE PART 5

The young people below are all interested in reading short stories. On the next page, there are descriptions of seven books of short stories. Decide which book would be the most suitable for each person. For Questions 25–29, write the correct letter (A–G) in the box.

25 [1]		Paula is interested in history and wants to read stories about life in the past. She'd also like the main characters in the stories to be children.	28 [1]		Lucas enjoys stories that are scary. He prefers stories that happen in the countryside.
26 [1]		Farid would like to read stories about people in different parts of the world. He is interested in stories about what happens in schools in those places.	29 [1]		Azita would like to read stories about people who are good at sports. She wants to read stories by a new writer.
27 [1]		Kyong would like to read stories that are funny. She also wants the stories to have animals in them.

Books of short stories

A A Busy Friday

These stories all happen during one day at a zoo. In the first story, zookeeper Mark enjoys spending time with monkeys and swimming with dolphins. My favourite is about a school trip that goes wrong – what happens to the children is scary.

B Zero Degrees Centigrade

Three families leave Europe and build homes in the hills and fields of northern Canada. Their only neighbours are bears and wolves. If you like horror stories, set 150 years ago, you'll love this book.

C The Long Summer

If you're interested in horses, you'll enjoy these stories because most are about horse racing and horse jumping. They were popular sports in the 1920s when the stories were written. You can also find out what farms were like a century ago.

D The Bell

These short stories are about classroom life for teenagers today. Find out what it's like for them in the countries they come from – such as Bangladesh and Peru. Some stories are sad and some are funny, but they're all beautifully written.

E Let's go!

In this first book by Sofia Hernandez, we read about some unusual school children who become famous footballers and tennis players. Some of their experiences are difficult, even frightening, for such young people, but there are also some very funny moments.

F Take my hand

This first book by 21-year-old Rashida Taylor takes us back to the 19th century and cities like London, Buenos Aires, Shanghai and Cairo. We see how the world was then through the eyes of a different ten-year-old girl or boy in each story.

G I Can Hear You

The first story in this wonderful collection is told by the main character – a tiger. The second is told by a penguin ... and so on. Their lives are amazing. Sometimes their adventures are dangerous, but usually they make you laugh.
