TEXT 1 – THE SCHOOL GARDEN

Last year, our school started a small garden behind the science building. At first, only ten students were interested in the project, but more students joined after they saw the first vegetables growing.

Every Wednesday afternoon, students work in small groups. They water the plants, remove weeds and check whether the vegetables are healthy. Our science teacher, Mr. Brown, teaches us how plants grow and explains why insects and birds are important for the environment.

The garden has also changed the way some students think about food. Before the project, I never thought about where vegetables came from. Now, I understand how much work is necessary to grow them.

Next month, the school is going to create a small area where students can sit and eat some of the vegetables from the garden. I think it will be a great place to relax and spend time with friends.
