A wonderful winter day

Last winter, Harry woke up early one morning and looked out of his bedroom window. Everything outside was white because it had snowed during the night. Harry was very excited because there was no school that day.

He put on his warm coat, hat and boots and went outside. His sister Holly was waiting for him in the garden. They decided to have fun in the snow. First, they threw snowballs at each other. Then they made a big snowman together. Holly put a red hat on its head, and Harry found a long scarf for it.

After that, they went to the park with their friends. The children played in the snow and took lots of funny photos. They stayed outside until it became dark.

When Harry and Holly got home, their mother gave them some hot chocolate. They were tired but very happy. It had been a wonderful winter day.
