A Sick Day

Hana woke up on Tuesday with a headache and a sore throat. She also felt hot. Her mother checked her temperature and found that she had a fever. Hana wanted to go to school because her class had an art lesson, but her mother said she should stay at home.

At the clinic, Dr Ravi listened to Hana's breathing and checked her throat. He said she needed to rest, drink plenty of water and take her medicine after meals. She should not share cups or towels with other people.

At home, Hana slept for two hours. Her friend Aisyah sent a photo of the homework. In the evening, Hana ate some soup and drank warm water. She felt better the next morning, but she stayed home for one more day. Hana learnt that resting and following the doctor's advice helped her get well.
