A Wonderful Mid-Autumn Festival

The Mid-Autumn Festival is one of the most popular traditional festivals in Vietnam. It takes place on the 15th day of the eighth lunar month, usually in September or October. The festival is a special occasion for families to get together and enjoy the beauty of the full moon.

Before the festival, people often decorate their homes and prepare delicious food. Mooncakes, which are usually round, are a traditional treat. They can have different fillings, such as lotus seeds, beans, or salted egg yolks.
