| A | Monarch butterfliesMonarch butterflies are orange and black with enormous wings. Every year, they fly more than 4,500 kilometres from Canada and North America down to an area in the mountains of Mexico. It is the longest journey of any butterfly in the world. Their journey usually starts in September or October and it takes about two months. These beautiful butterflies can sometimes fly more than 100 kilometres in one day and they often fly very high too. |
| B | Servals (African wild cats)Servals are African wild cats. They live in different countries in Africa such as South Africa and Tanzania. Servals can be one metre long. They have long legs and they are one of the tallest animals in the cat family. Servals are fast animals. They can run at eighty kilometres an hour. Servals eat animals like rats, and other small creatures such as frogs. They can jump up to three metres. In some parts of Africa there are now smaller number of servals and they are in danger. The biggest problem is human activity like hunting. |
| C | Mountain gorillasThere are only about 900 gorillas now in the world and they are one of the rarest animals in Africa. For many people, the gorillas aren't pretty or beautiful – some people say they have ugly faces. It's true, they are a dull colour – black or grey – and they aren't colourful creatures like butterflies. However, they are some of the most interesting animals in the world. If we protect these amazing creatures, they can become more common. |
