

A Day in the Life of a Car Designer

Good morning everyone. Today, I would like to share a day in the life of a car designer. My day usually starts early in the morning when I arrive at the Design Studio. I check my emails and read updates from my team. Then, I begin working on new car designs using computer software. This is the most important part of my job because I create ideas for future cars.

During the day, I draw and improve different parts of a car such as the shape, seats, wheels, and lights. I also join meetings with engineers and other designers. We always discuss design ideas focusing on safety and comfort. Sometimes, we test models and change designs if something does not work well. Teamwork is very important in my job because everyone shares ideas.

In the afternoon, I continue improving my designs and preparing short reports about my work. Before I leave, I save my progress and plan the next steps for tomorrow. In conclusion, being a car designer is busy but very interesting because I get to create cars that people will use in the future.

Workplace	17
Morning task	18
Tool used	19
Workmates	20
Design focus	21
Meeting activity	22
Afternoon work	23
End of day task	24

