

IS FRIDAY THE 13TH UNLUCKY?

Daniel believed that Friday the 13th was an unlucky day. His grandmother often told him that some people believed black cats brought bad luck. She also said that breaking a mirror could bring seven years of bad luck. Daniel was always careful on this day.

One Friday morning, Daniel woke up late because his alarm clock did not ring. He quickly got dressed and ran to the bus stop. Unfortunately, he missed the school bus and had to walk to school.

On his way, Daniel found a five-ringgit note on the ground. He picked it up and smiled. His best friend, Adam, told him that finding money was a sign of good luck.

When Daniel arrived at school, he remembered that he had an English test. He felt nervous because he had not studied enough. However, the questions were easy, and he answered them all correctly.

During recess, Daniel bought his favourite chicken rice with the money he had found. He shared some with Adam, who had forgotten to bring his lunch.

At the end of the day, Daniel laughed and said, "Maybe Friday the 13th is not such an unlucky day after all!"
