Cooking in the Kitchen

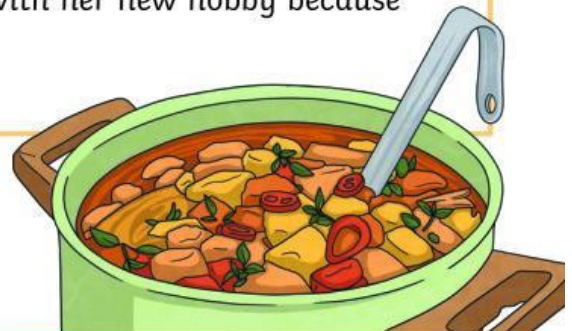

At home, Elisabeth's dad was always the person who had to cook food - her mum hated cooking and everything went wrong! For example, her mum always burnt the toast for breakfast in the mornings, and the last time she made an omelette it tasted horrible. So, Elisabeth's dad made every meal and Elisabeth sat with him in the kitchen and talked to him while he was cooking.

Elisabeth watched her dad make meals such as avocado salads, fish pies and lasagne for all her family to enjoy, and she started to write down the recipes in her notebook. Her favourite meal her dad cooked was roast chicken and vegetables every Sunday - it was the best chicken she had ever tasted!

One day, her dad asked her if she wanted to make a vanilla sponge cake, and that was the start of her new hobby. She had lots of fun making the cake with her dad and following every step of the recipe, and the cake was delicious! However, she thought the recipe was a little too easy and wanted to make more difficult dishes, so her dad bought her a recipe book for her birthday.

Now, Elisabeth cooks dinner for her whole family every Friday night and so far, she's made things like fajitas, hot pots, stews and salmon. Everyone is really proud of how passionate she is about cooking tasty and healthy food, and they're even happier that they don't have to cook on a Friday anymore!

"I didn't think she was paying attention to me when I was cooking, but she definitely was! I'm really happy for her and I hope she continues with her new hobby because it's so interesting", Elisabeth's dad says.
