

Airport Dialogues

Listen to the conversation carefully:

Situation: A passenger goes through airport security.

Listen here

At the security checkpoint

Security Officer: Good morning. Boarding pass and passport, please.

Passenger: Here you are.

Security Officer: Thank you. Please put your backpack and jacket in this tray.

Passenger: Should I take my laptop out of my bag?

Security Officer: Yes, please. Put it in a separate tray.

Passenger: What about my phone and keys?

Security Officer: Please put them in the tray, too.

Passenger: All right. Do I need to take off my shoes?

Security Officer: Please follow the signs and the instructions from the security staff.

Passenger: Okay. What should I do now?

Security Officer: Walk through the scanner when the light turns green.

Passenger: All right. Is everything okay?

Security Officer: Yes, you're all set. You can collect your belongings.

Passenger: Thank you. Where do I go now?

Security Officer: Follow the signs to the departure gates.

Passenger: Thank you for your help!

Security Officer: You're welcome. Have a nice flight!

