Descriptive Text: Influential Person

Text 1 B.J. Habibie — A Visionary Leader and Innovator

Bacharuddin Jusuf Habibie, commonly known as B.J. Habibie, was an Indonesian engineer, statesman, and the third President of Indonesia. He was born on 25 June 1936 in Parepare, South Sulawesi, and became widely known for his outstanding contributions to aerospace technology and national development.

Habibie studied mechanical engineering in Germany and developed expertise in aircraft design. He played an important role in the development of Indonesia's aerospace industry, particularly through the establishment of IPTN (now PT Dirgantara Indonesia). His work helped Indonesia build its own aircraft, including the N-250, which was designed to strengthen the country's technological independence.

In 1998, during a period of political change, Habibie became President of Indonesia. Although his presidency was relatively short, he introduced important reforms, such as greater freedom of the press, regional autonomy, and the organization of democratic elections. He is also remembered for his commitment to education, research, and the advancement of Indonesian youth.

B.J. Habibie's life shows how knowledge, innovation, and a strong sense of dedication can contribute to a nation's progress. His legacy continues to inspire many Indonesians to value education, work hard, and use their skills to make a positive impact on society.

"A dream does not become reality through magic; it takes hard work, determination, and learning."

Unit 4 Narrative Text: Inspiring True Story

Text 4 A Blind Climber Who Reached the Summit: The Inspiring Story of Erik Weihenmayer

Erik Weihenmayer was born in 1968 in Boulder, Colorado, United States. When he was a teenager, he lost his sight due to a rare genetic disease. At first, he felt angry and hopeless. However, with the support of his family and friends, he decided not to let his blindness stop him from living an extraordinary life.

Erik discovered his love for outdoor activities, especially rock climbing. He trained hard and learned new techniques using his other senses, such as hearing, touch, and memory. He climbed with the help of a partner who gave him verbal directions. His determination and positive mindset helped him overcome many challenges.

In 2001, Erik achieved an incredible milestone. He became the first blind person in the world to reach the summit of Mount Everest, the highest mountain on Earth. The journey was extremely difficult. He faced freezing temperatures, thin air, and dangerous terrain. But he never gave up.

Today, Erik Weihenmayer is a world-renowned adventurer, motivational speaker, and author. He has climbed the Seven Summits (the highest mountains on each continent) and completed many challenging expeditions. His story inspires millions of people to believe that no obstacle is too great when we have courage, determination, and the support of others.

Unit 5

Analytical Exposition Text: The Importance of Volunteering

Text 5 Volunteering: A Simple Action with a Big Impact

Volunteering is one of the most valuable activities that young people can do. It means giving time, energy, and skills to help others without expecting payment. Many students choose to volunteer in their communities, such as teaching younger children, joining environmental campaigns, or helping in disaster relief programs.

There are several reasons why volunteering is important. First, it helps build a stronger and more caring society. When people work together to solve social problems, communities become healthier and more united. Second, volunteering develops important life skills, such as teamwork, communication, and leadership. These skills are useful not only at school but also in future careers.

Some people argue that students are already busy with their studies, so they do not have time to volunteer. However, even small actions, such as joining a weekend clean-up or helping at a local library, can make a real difference. Volunteering does not always require a lot of time, money, or special skills. It only needs a willingness to care and take action.

In conclusion, volunteering is a meaningful activity that benefits both individuals and society. Young people should be encouraged to volunteer because it creates positive change, builds valuable skills, and helps them become more responsible and compassionate citizens in the future.

According to the text, what is one way students can volunteer?

- A By joining a weekend clean-up.
- B By taking a paid job during holidays.
- C By traveling to another country.
- D By buying expensive equipment.
- E By attending special training.

Unit 6

Discussion Text: Artificial Intelligence at School

Text 6 Artificial Intelligence: A Helpful Tool or a Serious Challenge?

Artificial intelligence (AI) is becoming more common in schools around the world. Many students use AI tools, such as chatbots and writing assistants, to help them with homework, research, and language learning. These tools can provide quick information, explain difficult concepts, and even give ideas for projects. Supporters believe that AI can make learning more interesting, personalized, and efficient.

However, there are also important concerns. Some teachers worry that students may rely too much on AI and become less independent in thinking. If students always use AI to complete their assignments, they may not develop important skills such as critical thinking, creativity, and problem-solving. There is also a risk of plagiarism because some students might copy AI-generated answers without understanding the content.

Another issue is the accuracy of information. AI tools do not always give correct or up-to-date information. Students need to check the sources and be critical of the answers they receive. In addition, there are ethical concerns, such as data privacy and the responsible use of technology.

In conclusion, AI can be a valuable tool in education if it is used wisely. Students should learn how to use AI responsibly, combine it with their own ideas, and always think critically. Schools, teachers, and students need to work together to create clear guidelines so that AI can support learning without replacing the essential role of human thinking and creativity.

MCQ: Choose ONE correct answer.

What is the main topic of the text?

- A The importance of traditional learning methods.
- B The advantages and disadvantages of artificial intelligence at school.
- C The history of artificial intelligence in the world.
- D The role of teachers in replacing AI tools.
- E The need to ban AI from schools.

20

MCMA: Choose ALL correct answers.

Which TWO benefits of AI at school are mentioned in the text?

- A It can make learning more interesting and personalized.
- B It always gives completely accurate information.
- C It helps students with homework and research.
- D It removes the need for teachers in the classroom.
- E It provides quick information and explanations.

21

MC Category: Classify each statement according to the specified categories.

Based on the text, classify each statement as Fact or Opinion.

No.	Statement	Category (Fact / Opinion)
1	Many students use AI tools to help them with homework.
2	AI is the best solution for all problems in education.
3	AI tools do not always give correct or up-to-date information.
4	Schools should create clear guidelines for using AI.

22

MCQ: Choose ONE correct answer.

According to the text, what should students do when using AI tools?

- A Copy and submit AI-generated answers without checking.
- B Stop using AI completely.
- C Use AI responsibly and think critically.
- D Replace their own ideas with AI's ideas.
- E Use AI only for entertainment.

Unit 7

Hortatory Exposition Text: Youth Health and Lifestyle

Text 7

Healthy Habits for a Brighter Future

In today's fast-paced world, many teenagers have unhealthy lifestyles. They often consume fast food, spend too much time on gadgets, and do not get enough sleep. These habits can cause serious health problems in the future, such as obesity, diabetes, and stress.

To have a better and healthier future, we need to change our lifestyle. First, we should eat nutritious food, such as fruits, vegetables, and lean protein. Second, we should do regular physical exercise, at least 30 minutes a day, to keep our bodies strong and fit. Third, we should limit screen time and use gadgets wisely. Spending too much time on social media can reduce productivity and affect our mental health. Finally, we should get enough sleep, around 7–9 hours each night, to help our bodies and minds recover.

Healthy habits are not difficult to start. We can begin with small steps, such as bringing a water bottle, choosing healthier snacks, walking instead of using a vehicle for short distances, and setting a suitable bedtime. These simple actions can make a big difference in our daily lives.

In conclusion, we should adopt a healthy lifestyle to achieve a brighter future. By eating nutritious food, exercising regularly, limiting screen time, and getting enough sleep, we can be healthier, happier, and more productive. A healthy youth today will create a stronger and brighter Indonesia tomorrow.

Gunung Leuser National Park: A Natural Treasure

Gunung Leuser National Park is one of Indonesia's most important conservation areas. It is located in the provinces of Aceh and North Sumatra, on the island of Sumatra. The park covers an area of about 7,927 square kilometers, making it one of the largest national parks in Southeast Asia.

Gunung Leuser is home to a wide variety of flora and fauna. It provides a natural habitat for many endangered species, such as the Sumatran orangutan, Sumatran tiger, Sumatran elephant, and rhinoceros. The park also has more than 3,800 species of plants, including the famous Rafflesia, the world's largest flower.

The park has several types of ecosystems, including tropical rainforests, rivers, mountains, and swamp forests. These ecosystems support biodiversity and help maintain the environmental balance of the region. In addition to its natural beauty, Gunung Leuser also provides important benefits for local communities, such as clean water, fresh air, and sources of traditional medicine.

However, the park faces several challenges, such as illegal logging, poaching, and habitat destruction. Therefore, conservation efforts are needed to protect its unique ecosystems and endangered species. We can support these efforts by following regulations, not buying illegal wildlife products, and spreading awareness about the importance of preserving our national parks.
