The Puffin

The puffin is an adorable bird, famous for (0) it multicoloured beak and small size. They live near oceans, diving (1) in the water to feed on fish. Unlike the penguin, puffins can fly, and often (2) does so over the water before diving in. If you (3) are never seen a puffin swim it is extremely (4) cuter, and I recommend looking up a video. Their multicoloured beak is (5) using to attract mates during breeding. The colours (6) in the beak are created by a series of hard plates growing on their beak which (7) falls off after the mating season is complete. Some puffin species do not (8) making nests, as the rocky cliffs they inhabit do not have an abundance of twigs and leaves. Instead, they burrow into the ground using their big beak and webbed feet.
