Techno-Newbie

I'm not a person who is really interested in computers. So, when my brother says something about a thing called a USB stick, I have no idea what he is talking about I think I should get with it, and learn the latest technology. So, next week I'm going to an electronics store to buy a new computer. Let me tell you, I'll be so out of place when the salespeople start talking about all these different kinds of computers and programs. Everything sounds like a foreign language to me. Anyway, I'll get a nice laptop that has a modem inside it, so I can get online wherever I want. That's what my brother told me I should do. USB sticks are really easy to use because all you have to do is stick them into a USB port, and they start working right away. That's perfect for me. After I get my laptop, my brother and will start chatting online all the time. I'll even get something called a webcam, so we can see each other when we talk. But not yet, I'm still trying to get the hang of e-mail.

1. The writer will buy _____ next week
2. The writer's laptop will have a _____ inside of it.
3. When he gets the laptop, the writer will start _____ with his brother online.
4. The writer wants to buy a _____ too.
