

LISTENING PRACTICE 5

Listen and fill in the blanks

How to Apply for VLSI Internships

1. Preparing for applications

- Prepare a resume and (1) _____.
- Watch a (2) _____ on resume building to learn what information to include and how to organize the resume.
- Build an online presence by creating a (3) _____ or a GitHub repository.

2. On-campus internships

- Make use of (4) _____, especially the placement cell.
- Ask about companies offering internships, internship (5) _____ and stipend.
- Attend mock interviews and (6) _____ to gain experience and improve interview skills.
- Contact (7) _____ members for industry connections, information about current technologies and trends, and available internship opportunities.

3. Off-campus internships

- Students from tier 2 or tier 3 colleges can apply for.
- Use (8) _____ such as Internshala, LinkedIn, Glassdoor, Indeed and Naukri.com.
- Build a (9) _____, include industry-related keywords and update the profile regularly.
- Apply to as many companies as possible.
- Make sure the internship matches your (10) _____ and area of expertise.
- Check (11) _____ for job and internship offers posted by individuals.

4. Company career portals

- Visit company websites and check their (12) _____ for internship and job opportunities.
- Start applying for suitable positions.

5. Networking and referrals

- Build a (13) _____ and contact seniors to ask about internship or job opportunities at their companies.
- Share (14) _____ and ask for referrals.
- Build (15) _____ by showing interest, improving your skills and demonstrating (16) _____ for working in core electronics companies.
- Use LinkedIn to contact employees at specific companies, (17) _____ and ask for referrals when suitable openings are available.

6. VLSI internship fields

Choose a field according to your interests:

- Analog design
- (18) _____
- RF design
- Mixed-signal design
- (19) _____
- Physical design
- Embedded systems
- (20) _____