Reading Comprehension: Hortatory Exposition

1. Read the following text. Many students bring snacks and drinks to school in disposable plastic packaging. After lunchtime, plastic waste often fills the school bins. Some students also throw rubbish carelessly, causing drains to become blocked when it rains. Therefore, schools should encourage students to reduce single-use plastics and provide more recycling facilities. According to the text, what problem is explicitly mentioned?

A. Students have limited access to drinking water.

B. Plastic waste accumulates and blocks school drains.

C. Schools do not provide enough food for students.

D. Students refuse to participate in school activities.

2. Read the following text. Many teenagers spend several hours playing online games every day. Some students even stay up late to complete game missions. Consequently, they often feel tired in the morning and have difficulty concentrating during lessons. Teachers and parents should encourage teenagers to manage their gaming time and prioritize their responsibilities. What can be inferred from the text?

A. All online games negatively affect teenagers.

B. Teenagers should stop using all digital devices.

C. Teenagers who play games cannot achieve academic success.

D. Excessive gaming may interfere with teenagers' academic activities.

3. Read the following text. Schools should allow students to use smartphones for educational purposes. Smartphones provide quick access to digital dictionaries, learning videos, and online references. However, some students use their phones to check social media during lessons. This behavior can interrupt classroom discussions and reduce concentration. Therefore, teachers should establish clear rules for smartphone use in learning activities. Which TWO conclusions are supported by the text?

A. Students should be allowed to use smartphones without any restrictions.

B. Smartphones can support learning when students use them appropriately.

C. Every student uses smartphones only for educational purposes.

D. Guidance from teachers is important to prevent smartphone misuse.

LIVEWORKSHEETS

4. Read the following text. Regular exercise is important for students. Physical activities such as cycling, swimming, and jogging help maintain a healthy body. Exercise can also reduce stress and improve sleep quality. Unfortunately, many students spend most of their free time sitting and using digital devices. Therefore, schools should organize regular sports activities. The author suggests that schools have a role in encouraging students to become more physically active.

Benar

Salah

5. Read the following text. Reading books helps students develop vocabulary and critical thinking skills. It also allows them to gain information from different sources. However, many teenagers prefer watching short videos rather than reading. Schools should provide interesting reading materials and organize reading programs to develop students' reading habits. The author believes that watching short videos is more beneficial for students than reading books.

Benar

Salah

LIVEWORKSHEETS