LIVEWORKSHEETS

Scientists have recently discovered that birds are becoming smaller due to climate change. Researchers examined more than 70,000 North American birds over a period of 40 years. They found that most of these birds have become smaller, while their wingspans have actually grown longer.

According to scientists, having smaller body sizes helps birds keep cool in higher temperatures. However, smaller bodies also mean that birds have less energy. As a result, they need larger wingspans to compensate for this loss of energy during flight.

Experts believe that global warming is not only affecting birds but is also causing other animals to shrink, including species such as mountain goats, fish, salamanders, and wasps. All of these animals are getting smaller as the planet heats up. This change in physical size is affecting their feeding habits, the availability of food, and their natural behavior. Therefore, limiting global warming is vital to avoid further damage to our wildlife.

Question 1. What is the main idea of the passage?

A. How global warming helps birds fly longer distances

B. Birds are shrinking because of climate change

C. The history of North American birds over 40 years

D. How to take care of small-sized birds

Question 2. According to paragraph 1, how long did researchers study North American birds?

A. For less than 40 years B. For exactly 70 years

C. For over four decades D. For 70,000 days

Question 3. The word "compensate" in paragraph 2 is closest in meaning to _____.

A. make up for B. give up C. take care of D. put up with

Question 4. Why do birds need larger wingspans as their bodies shrink?

A. Because smaller bodies give them too much energy.

B. Because they need to balance their lower energy levels.

C. Because the weather is getting colder.

D. Because bigger wings keep their bodies warmer.

Question 5. According to the text, what is NOT mentioned as an effect of the change in size of animals?

A. Changes in the way they act B. How long they live

C. Changes in what they eat D. Changes in their sources of food

Question 6. The word "vital" in paragraph 3 is OPPOSITE in meaning to _____.

A. important B. necessary C. essential D. unnecessary

Question 7. What can be inferred from the passage?

A. Physical changes in animals are rarely influenced by their surroundings.

B. Birds with shorter wingspans can survive better in warmer global temperatures.

C. Rising temperatures force animals to change both their bodily features and lifestyle patterns.

D. Reduce in daily food consumption leads to smaller size of some species.
