A. THEORY

Structures (Cấu trúc Ngữ pháp)

❖ Comparative & Superlative Adjectives

S1 + to be + Adj-er + than + S2

S1 + to be + more + Adj + than + S2

S + to be + the + Adj-est + …

S + to be + the most + Adj + …

- Cách dùng:

• Comparative: So sánh sự khác biệt giữa 2 người hoặc vật.

• Superlative: So sánh 1 người hoặc vật vượt trội nhất trong nhóm từ 3 trở lên.

E.g: Tom is taller than Bob. / Tom is the tallest boy in class.

This phone is more expensive than that one. / This phone is the most expensive in the shop.

❖ Comparative & Superlative Adverbs

S1 + V + Adv-er + than + S2

S1 + V + more + Adv + than + S2

S + V + the + Adv-est + …

S + V + the most + Adv + …

- Cách dùng:

• Comparative: So sánh cách làm việc gì đó giữa 2 người/vật (hoặc cùng một người ở 2 thời điểm).

• Superlative: So sánh 1 người/vật làm việc gì đó hơn tất cả những người còn lại trong một nhóm (từ 3 trở lên).

E.g: A car runs faster than a bike. / Please write more carefully than last time.

Planes fly the fastest. / He works the most carefully in our team.

❖ much/far + comparative; far less + adverb + than

S1 + [to be / V] + much / far + [So sánh hơn] + than + S2

- Cách dùng: Nhấn mạnh rằng khoảng cách chênh lệch giữa 2 đối tượng là rất lớn.

E.g.: A plane is much bigger than a car. / Russia is far larger than Vietnam.

A cheetah runs much faster than a dog. / He speaks English far more fluently than last year.

S1 + V + far less + [Trạng từ dài] + than + S2

- Cách dùng: Diễn tả hành động diễn ra thấp hơn, ít hơn hoặc kém hơn hẳn về mức độ so với đối tượng còn lại.

E.g.: It's raining far less heavily today than it did yesterday. / My little brother speaks far less loudly than my big brother.

Dolphin Trip

By Paul Hannan

My family have always been huge fans of New Zealand – my mum comes from the capital – so we saved up and went for a holiday there. We started with a week in the city she grew up in. After that, we toured around for a while before ending up by chance in Kaikoura, a small town on the coast. The first evening it seemed a rather dull place, but the next day I remembered what I'd read about it – that it was often possible to see dolphins and whales there! I'll always think of Kaikoura as the place where I finally achieved my lifelong ambition – to swim with wild dolphins.

My family and I set off on a dolphin trip on a cold, grey day with a number of other people on a small boat. However, the sky soon turned blue, and we raced across the waves in the sunshine until we finally reached the place where we were supposed to go swimming. To my surprise, this was more than 40 km from land. I was quite cold by this time, and really starting to wonder why my family had made me come all the way out there, when suddenly someone shouted 'Dolphins!'.

All I could see were fins everywhere – there were more than a hundred dolphins, all swimming towards our boat! Many of them were jumping around in the water as if they were asking us to come and play. I put on my snorkel and jumped into the sea. Everywhere I looked, all I could see was dolphins, swimming under me and round me. Then I remembered the guide had told us to make sounds in the water to attract them.

LIVEWORKSHEETS

So I did and actually heard them making similar sounds, as if they were trying to answer me. I even made eye contact with one dolphin, and watched it carefully as I swam round in a circle. Amazingly, the dolphin almost followed me, but then changed its mind, although it kept eye contact with me all the time. It really made me realise how intelligent and beautiful these creatures are.

Then after an hour of swimming the guides called us to get back onto the boat. Although I had enjoyed myself, I was keen to leave the water by then as I was very cold. As I got dry I noticed that everyone on board was smiling and I realised what a very special moment we'd had.

I'll never forget that experience, and Kaikoura will always have a special place in my heart.
