Traffic Rules in My Town

My name is Nam, and I live in a small town near Hanoi. Our town has about 50,000 people. The traffic here is not very heavy, but we still have important rules.

Most people in my town use bicycles and motorbikes. Students ride bikes to school because it is safe and good for their health. Adults use motorbikes when they go to work. There are few cars because our streets are small.

LIVEWORKSHEETS

We started having traffic lights three years ago. Before that, there were only signs. Now we have five traffic lights on the main streets. When the light is red, everyone must stop. When it is green, we can go.

Our town has one big problem: many young people ride motorbikes too fast. They don't wear helmets, and this is dangerous. Last month, there were two accidents because of this.

The police teach traffic safety at schools every month. They show us how to cross the street safely, and they tell us to always wear helmets. My school is near a busy road, so we must be very careful.

Traffic Safety for Children

My name is Linh, and I am a traffic safety helper at my school. Every morning, I help young students cross the street safely. This job is important because the street near our school is very busy.

Last year, our school started a new program. They chose ten responsible students to be traffic helpers. We wear yellow vests so everyone can see us. Our teacher, Mr. Minh, trained us for two weeks. He taught us traffic rules and showed us how to help children cross the street.

Every morning, I stand at the crossing with my red sign. When cars come, I hold up the sign to stop them. Then I help the small children walk across safely. The drivers always stop when they see us because they know we are protecting children.

Many parents like this program. Before we started, some children were afraid to cross the street alone. Now they feel safe, and their parents don't worry. Our principal says more schools want to start the same program next year.
