Do you know that people started to know and use the internet in the 1990s? First it was not as fast as it is now because you had tothrough a telephone line, but since then things have changed a lot. Today you can find mobile gadgets all over the world, like laptops, smartphones and tablets. What helps these gadgets to spread widely is the availability of the Wi-Fi and how easy it is to connect them to it.

No one deny that mobile gadgets and theon them are veryas they make our lives easier. They help us in many things. We can chat with anyone, anytime, anywhere and we can evenwith them videos, photos and even documents. Besides, we can easily send and receive e-mails. Moreover, we can for any information we want, or look up a word in the dictionary. We can download and play games as well!

Because it's really useful, many people probably spend a lot of time on the internet. Actually, the average time for a person online is almost five hours a day! Some people worry that we spend a lot of time with ourespecially our smartphones. Do you agree?
