There's a moon over Bourbon Street tonight

I see _____ as they pass _____ the _____
I've no _____ but to follow that _____
The _____, the _____, and the moon and all
I _____ everyday to be _____
For I _____ what I do _____ be _____
Oh you'll never see my _____ or hear the _____ of my _____
While there's a moon over Bourbon Street

It was many years ago that I _____ what I am
I was _____ in this life like an innocent _____
Now I can never _____ my face at _____
And you'll only see me _____ by the light of the _____
The _____ of my hat _____ the eye of a _____
I've the face of a _____ but the hands of a _____
Oh you'll never see my _____ or hear the _____ of my _____
While there's a moon over Bourbon Street

She walks everyday _____ the streets of New Orleans
She's _____ and _____ from a family of _____
I have _____ many times outside her _____ at night
To _____ with my _____ in the pale _____
How _____ I be this way when I pray to God _____
I must love what I _____ and _____ the thing I love
Oh you'll never see my _____ or hear the _____ of my _____
